THE IPAD PROJECT

Internet and social media have become globally mainstreamed in everyday life for adults, their children and young people. Although they may know how to use social media, they often do not know how to do it correctly, consciously and thoughtfully, considering topics such as privacy protection, fake news and ethical behaviour and communication.

To address this issue, the IPAD project was launched by seven expert organisations from five countries - Spain, Portugal, Austria, Turkey and Ireland - working between October 2023 and September 2025 to co-create a collection of competences in social media literacy and Internet safety, develop an ICT-based training tool for adult educators and draft a set of guidelines to transfer the project results to interested parties.

PROJECT RESULTS

Training curriculum on social media literacy and Internet safety for adult educators

Online platform of open educational resources on social media literacy and internet safety

Guidelines and recommendations on social media literacy and internet safety

IPAD TRAINING CURRICULUM

IPAD - Innovative digital awareness resources for parents on Social Media Literacy and Internet Safety - aims at providing adult educators with digital training resources to upskill adults on social media literacy and Internet safety, to boost reflective handling, participation in society and the understanding of the online world benefits and risks for them, their children and younger generations.

The Training curriculum helps adult educators to identify and develop the competences needed to train adults on social media literacy and internet safety. It is available in at <https://ipad-erasmus.eu>
